The Maharashtra State Legal Services Authority organized the Lok Adalat on 14th September, 2021 at the District and Sessions Court, Shivajinagar, Pune. The students and the faculty of Symbiosis Law School, Pune played an essential role in the conduct of the Lok Adalat. The faculty were instructed to be present in formal attire and were instructed to report by 9:30 am, near Ashoka Hall. The Assistant Panel Judges had to follow all forms of safety protocol by carrying their own sanitizers, masks, and umbrellas. Furthermore, the court was sanitized, and all members were expected to strictly follow social distancing measures. Symbiosis Law School provided food packets and water to all its representatives, who had to prepare a report based on their visit. While in the courtroom, the Assistant Panel Judges had to duly comply to certain requirements. This included listing down the case number along with the party name and facts of the case in a succinct manner. A record of the terms and conditions of the case based on the agreement and if such consensus has not been arrived upon, suggestions should be offered to the presiding officer. Recording of the discussions during the proceedings while resolving the case or any other assistance given to the presiding officer had to be made note of.

The solutions arrived at should be amicable and arrived at should be through applying the expertise of each of the Assistant Panel Judges and they must mandatorily be signed by the Panel prior to leaving the Court Room. There was a total of 35 panels which hosted the faculty members in the position of panelist. They attended to various matters with a sense of grit and the will to uphold justice. Some of the matters undertaken pertain to guilty plea, criminal and domestic violence, loan recovery, S.138 of Negotiable Instruments, mobile, electricity bill, Motor Vehicles Act, etc. to name a few.

The Assistant Panel Judges effectively employed all forms of alternative dispute resolution methods- Conciliation, Negotiation and Conciliation to attend to the matters. They worked

On 8th January 2020, under the supervision of Prof. Pallavi Pathare and Prof. Chaitraly Deshmukh our two students Manasai Desai and Asha Singh took legal counselling Madhavi Sandeep Kumar Kamble who was charged under IPC Section 370 and Section 3, 4 and 5 Immoral Traffic (Prevention) Act, 1956. During counselling it was suggested that the counsellors even suggested that they were willing to provide assistance with securing a job and her subsequent rehabilitation with an NGO. However, the client was adamant about sheltering in NGO and staying alone but we counsel her that she can stay with her son and live a good life. She felt that having agreed to rehabilitation with an NGO would negatively impact the reputation of her son, who after growing up would get that social tag.
